Dear Parents and Carers,

As we continue to live out our vision of Bright Women, Bold Futures, it has been a joy returning this term to see our students continuing to embrace opportunities that challenge, inspire and empower them in equal measure.

Across the school, there is a real sense of purpose in the experiences our young people are engaging with. From thoughtful participation in the Camden Choices and Consent programmes, to rich discussions about social media and global perspectives through our partnership work, students are developing the knowledge, confidence and integrity to navigate an increasingly complex world. These moments matter deeply—they are shaping not only informed learners, but compassionate and courageous citizens.

Our commitment to student voice and leadership is equally evident. The work of our Rights Respecting School Steering Group continues to inspire, most recently through their powerful engagement with an external speaker whose story of resilience and ambition has clearly left a lasting impression. It is this kind of encounter that helps our students to see what is possible for their own futures.

Creativity also continues to flourish. Our Year 10 Design and Technology students' visit to the V&A is a wonderful example of learning brought to life—where ideas, skills and social awareness come together in meaningful ways. Likewise, I am delighted that our music provision has recently been recognised in the local press, celebrating the strength, inclusivity and ambition of our programme. It is a proud moment for the whole school community and a testament to the talent and dedication of our students and staff. La Sainte Union Catholic School showcases GCSE music talent | Ham & High

Alongside these highlights, you will also find important information in this edition of the Family Bulletin, including details about HPV vaccinations and an external summer camp opportunity that may be of interest to families.

Thank you, as always, for your continued support. Together, we are creating an environment where every student can grow in confidence, discover their voice, and step boldly into the future.

Warm regards,

Mrs Fegan

Bright Women with Bold Futures.

LA SAINTE UNION IS A RIGHTS RESPECTING SCHOOL

Our UNICEF Rights Respecting School Steering Group participated in a truly inspiring initiative, welcoming Carmen Gómez from the Women & Politics Society at King's College London. As part of a new series of informal conversations, students were able to engage in open, reflective dialogue in a relaxed and welcoming setting.

Carmen spoke candidly about her journey as an immigrant woman, sharing both the challenges she has overcome and the resilience that has shaped her path. Her message encouraged students to recognise and cultivate their transferable skills, illustrating how her passion for theatre helped her to develop confidence and an authentic voice. She also highlighted the exciting opportunities that can emerge through perseverance and self-belief, including her recent diplomatic internship at the Costa Rican Embassy in London.

The Steering Group is now creating a video presentation to share Carmen's insights with the wider school community, ensuring that her powerful message continues to inspire others to aim high, embrace opportunity and believe in their potential.

PSHE News

During the second half of Term 2, our students embraced a rich programme of experiences designed to nurture their personal growth, strengthen their wellbeing, and deepen their understanding of the world around them.

Year 9 engaged thoughtfully with the Camden Choices Programme, exploring important themes such as drugs, knife crime and exploitation. Through this work, students developed a greater awareness of the challenges young people may encounter, while building the confidence to make safe, informed and responsible decisions. Year 10 students also completed the Camden Consent Programme, furthering their understanding of healthy relationships, mutual respect and the importance of clear personal boundaries.

Our Year 9 cohort also took part in a stimulating workshop led by The Economist Educational Foundation in partnership with PA Consulting. This session invited students to explore the complex role of social media in young people's lives, using real-world data to sharpen their analytical thinking. Through discussion and debate, students compared international approaches to online safety, demonstrating curiosity, empathy and an impressive ability to consider diverse perspectives.

Year 10 Design Technology Trip to the V&A

This week, our Year 10 GCSE Design and Technology students enriched their learning beyond the classroom with an inspiring visit to the V&A Museum. Immersed in one of the world's leading centres of art and design, students had the opportunity to experience first-hand how creativity can be used to communicate powerful ideas.

A highlight of the visit was a dynamic printmaking workshop, where students were challenged to design and produce a poster addressing an issue they feel passionately about. This experience encouraged them to think critically about the role of design in society, using visual communication as a tool for advocacy and change while developing their practical skills and creative confidence.

Students also explored the museum's remarkable collections, including the furniture and jewellery galleries. These visits offered valuable insight into historical and contemporary design, sparking ideas and supporting their ongoing GCSE project research. By engaging with a wide range of materials, techniques and cultural influences, students were able to broaden their understanding of design and its impact across different contexts.

Reflecting on the trip, one student shared, "It was really inspiring to see how designers use their work to speak about real issues. The workshop helped me think more deeply about my own ideas, and I've come away with so many new inspirations for my project."

Experiences like this play a vital role in helping students to connect their learning to the wider world, encouraging them to think ambitiously, work creatively, and develop as thoughtful and innovative designers.
